That Tired Feeling

Inflammation of impulse and impeded blood. If your blood could flow so rich and pure, full of life, you would never be weak, or subject to painful trouble soon. But you are living slow in winter, nearly night and day, and sleep all the time, and weaken. Hood's Sarsaparilla, to cure a scrofulous lump near the left breast, which caused her much pain and after taking 4 bottles it disappeared. Blanche, who is now eleven had spent seven years of suffering, so I concluded to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She took 5 bottles and her face is smooth and soft as a baby's, the color of a rose petal. Her hands are soft and white, where four months ago they were blue and red and swollen, just like leather. I can mouth. It seems a miracle. Friends are surprised. Miss ANNA L. CRAVEN, 4017 4th St., Duluth, Minn.

WEDNESDAY APRIL 1895

FOR MASON

FLAVIUS O. BEAL.

The Tennessee Outrage.

Referring to the political outrage in Tennessee the New York Herald says: "The vote of Tennessee last November, as officially returned, gave Mr. Evans, the Republican candidate for Governor 101,191 votes and Gov. Larnay who was a candidate for reelection 101,171. This made Evans plurality 18. That these returns were as favorable to Jerry as possible is proved by the fact that almost all of the election officers in the State were Democrats. It is reason able to assume, at least, that the count did not favor the Republicans beyond the showing of the legal election figures."

Nevertheless the Democrats in Oregon immediately began to conspire to steal the state from the Republicans. The Legislature unfortunately was Democratic. The Bourne leaders decided that the Governor-elect Evans should not be inaugurated. They were not bold enough to do it in front of the recently developed sentiment against the old school leaders and methods. So they made it at an in operation much more than while called to see the outcome's purpose would apparently be the same on law. They then introduced and passed a bill in the Legislature valuing that a majority of the houses should meet every convention and open and close the session.

This action of course it was substantially unconstitutional. Its action could not be understood if it were right to be the character of the law. The bill which which could have been expected. But Gov. J. Evans refused from the beginning with a protest against the wrong of the bill to proceed with its introduction and adoption of it according to his protest was ignored. He then sought to seek the ousting of the bill before all the features of legislation in question were completed with sufficient time concerned. He now proposes to exhaust all possible legal process to compel the secretary of state to hold up and the general authorities to recuse or to decline to issue.

REPUBLICAN VICTORIES.

Returns from Chicago Show Almost Clean Republican Sweep.

Increased Republican Majorities in Missouri.

CHICAGO, April 3. The political landscape of last November in this city was augmented in yesterday's election. The returns show an almost clean sweep for the Republicans. George B. Swift, however, was elected by 40,500 plurality over John W. Davis, Democrat, and the other candidates on the Republican ticket received substantially the same plurality with the exception of West for City Attorney, who ran 20,000 behind his ticket. He has a safe plurality of 19,240.

The city of Chicago is divided for taxing purposes into two districts known as towns. In all these the Republican candidate for Assessor, Collector, Supervisor and Clerk were elected by unprecedented pluralities.

Twenty-two members of the Common Council were elected. Of these 19 are Republicans and 3 are Democrats and one is an Independent Democrat.

With a few exceptions the members of the booth gang who were up for reelection were defeated.

There were several surprises in the Aldermanic results. In the first ward Michael Kenna was beaten by Gleason to publication.

In the nineteenth ward ex Congressman Frank Lawler, who has been a candidate for almost anything in sight during the last three years, was again an independent Democrat, and won over the regular Democratic candidate by a narrow margin.

In the 21st, John McAllister, leader of the Democratic forces in the community, was defeated by 1,000 plurality. His defeat is attributed to his unpopularity record on the so-called booth ordinance.

In the 29th ward relatives to the Council Bulk McCarthy and supported him. McCarthy, a prominent attorney, who successfully represented the booth gang, was up for reelection and was defeated.

The vote in the 29th ward was unusually light, with only 1,000 votes cast.

The booth gang, which had been a factor in the election of the booth gang, was up for reelection and was defeated.

Mr. Wild's office was open to the public from 10 A.M. until 1 P.M. and no visitors were admitted.

The Railroad Accident.

The Railroad Commissioners sat in the city all day Wednesday investigating the railroad accident this side of Bangor on Tuesday morning last. A large volume of testimony was taken and we print the substance of it in another place. It was not until the evening session that the commissioners got right down to the main facts in the case. Then Despatcher Barry, in the railroad office, was sent for and was examined at length. His testimony without doubt fixes the responsibility on the Portland office. During the examination by Mr. Woodard the witness said that he had witnessed the plain rule of the road in several instances. This rule provides that the train having the right of way which in this instance was the train from St. John, must be entitled to pass any special orders issued. In spite of this fact, however, several orders were issued to other trains while the passenger train from St. John was in motion, without a single order being given to order the train to stop. See John at Milford.

The men in charge of the work may have had a short time of it, and moments of train with who better told the better train was given an order to cross at Vassal's siding by Harry before he went off duty? When he went home he forgot to notice this particular order to his own satisfaction, he did many other things that had been issued. It is true that two orders of an authority with rank on it for the book kept for that purpose. It was undoubtedly true that it was distinctly of the man who was in charge of the trains after Harry left to leave this book, but the bulk of the minor lightening in prison with the bulk of the men who issued the order. He admitted his testimony that it was the duty of the man who was responsible to give him such as all possible information concerning the situation on the road. Had this been known by the author of his testimony would not have occurred. The commissioners adjourned till Monday, until next week when they will take the testimony of those in the room who received Part I.

The Court and Income Tax.

A despatch to the Philadelphia Da under date of April 1st says: "The Supreme Court was allowed today to day with those interested in the expounding of the income tax law. There was general suspense in Boston and expressed when the Court concluded its business with it having got away clean."

Among the cases the court were three ex parte legal cases, Secretary Bristow vs. Secretary Root, and ex Attorney General asked, where were a number of very prominent attorneys and two or three well known congressmen, among the latter being Senator Morris, of Vermont. The question of custom was raised by the Court, and the eagerly expected determination on the status of the income tax law was not announced. The treasury officials were very much disappointed, as they had hoped that at least a verbal decision would have been rendered today. As it is the department is left in great uncertainty as to whether there will be an increase or decrease of $ 800,000,000 in the revenue.

It was stated this evening that the papers to the court authority that the court is divided, as was reported in the work that Justice Miller and Associate Justice Brown and White may be called to have decided that the law is unconstitutional, while the other five, including Justice of the circuit court, it is said, that they are so far wavering on the part of the court of the five in question to be opposed to the law and a further consultation is desired before a decision is rendered. It is believed that the wishes of President Cleveland are to decide in favor of the law being sustained. It is not at all unlikely that he will in opinion add even the slightest influence in the action of the court in its final decision. But there are some who believe that the law is partly due to an indisposition of the part of the three justices who sat on the law to bring at least one or two of them over to the other side in their way of thinking.

It is stated in legal circles that a decision will be rendered during the first week in May. It is felt that the intervening time will serve for an election and for writing the opinions. If the Court should be evenly divided in its opinion the law would stand and if the general result is that the division is now so decided to the contrary, there will be no cause for strong or heavy inquiry work done on the part of the majority to work at least one of the opposition.

The delay in deciding this case does not prevent the Internal Revenue Bureau from resuming the work of assessing the taxes. The work of assessing those whose income were known to exceed $1000 per year has been completed by the Deputy Revenue Collectors. It is now the duty of those liable to the tax to make immediate returns, as the law requires that they shall be in by April 15. It is believed by the Treasury officials that this requirement will be pretty generally complied with and that the Supreme Court decision will not be wanted for much longer. If the taxpayers make their returns within the time required they will not lose anything if the law should be declared unconstitutional. If, on the other hand, they should delay making returns until after April 15, and the law should be declared unconstitutional, they would be liable to the penalty prescribed in the law.

The Treasury Department can really afford to have the decision delayed if it should be in favor of the law. There will doubtless be a number of tax payers who will throw themselves liable to a fine by not making returns and this will add just so much to the aggregate of the revenues derived from that source. The Department has sent out notices, and three months are allowed after April 15 in which to assess penalties and make collections upon returns.

If the Supreme Court should finally decide the law unconstitutional, the Treasury Department will hold a bad way, and its officials do not attempt to deny that fact. While they are professedly gratified with the increase in the revenues shown during the last month, they do not anticipate that they will keep up and meet the expenditures with the aid of the income tax.

THE DEBT CONTINUES.
Receipts for March show an increase of some $3,000,000 over those of February, but still the end of the month brought a deficit of about $200,000 with the full deficit of the fiscal year up to April 1, $30,542,152.76. The present month will show a very large increase in expenditures, and the most sanguine of the Treasury officials anticipate that the total deficiencies will be increased at least $5,000,000 by May 1. This is allowing for a gradual increase also in the current receipts.

There has been rigid economy in the Treasury Department during the past month which amounts to some extent to the decrease of the monthly deficiency. Public works have been retarded and expenditures held up wherever it is possible.

There is still some talk of an extra session of Congress in case the decision of the Supreme Court should be adverse to the law. It is stated that President Cleveland, in receiving a delegation of the New England today, who had come to invite him to visit their city and make a speech on the financial question, intimated that it might not be possible for him to leave Washington this summer. This was construed by some of the visitors to mean that he might again have Congress on his hands.

THE AMOUNT GROWING.

Further Discoveries in the Hale Defalcation Case.

The Amount Now Reaches Enormous Proportions.

Former Town Officials Open to Charge of Culpable Negligence.

April 1. The Hale defalcation still coming and have reached $10,000. The town is in great excitement. The town government is contesting paying the notes. The sum has been set aside all day. The Hale is not in office at all now in the town hall.

March 31. An order was passed by the town that the treasurer should have a receipt of floating bonds in their hands by Saturday or Sunday. No details have reached Washington. It is well understood that Japan will secure practically everything she asked the possession of from the war indemnity of 400,000,000 yen, the independence of Korea and the return of the provinces of Chang Lin who includes the Amakiri and a sufficient amount of territory surrounding the place for military and strategic purposes, until the indemnity is paid.

It is well known in the knowledge of the Chinese that the terms of this new loan are being kept to the end, though knowing it was the Chinese who they put in the town that year were to be May 1. We might be thinking for the month of May. They will be held for the month of May.

AN IMMENSE COMBINATION.

Rumors of Uniting Interests of Pulp Manufacturers.

BOSTON, April 1. It is rumored here that an immense combination has been formed among the leading pulp manufacturers of New England, including especially the plants of Maine and New Hampshire. The financial concern backing the organization is said to be Drexel, Morgan & Co., Philadelphia. It is to be called the American Pulp Co. It is said the combination will not increase the cost of paper but will reduce expenses.

Some paper men doubt whether $15,000,000 would be sufficient to control the mills.

SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKES.

Many Houses Collapse and Several Lives Were Lost.

LOMPO, April 1. Lompo has been shaken by earthquakes several times this week. At Irakura to a house collapsed seven dead bodies were recovered in the ruins and eight persons are reported missing.
